

CARNEGIE IN FAVOR OF ROOSEVELT VIEW
TESTIFIES BEFORE STEEL COMMITTEE THAT BIG ORGANIZATIONS SHOULD CONTINUE.
FOR TRUST REGULATION
Declares That Sherman Law Is Not Drastic Enough and Would Regulate Rather Than Dissolve.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—"I am familiar with the views of ex-President Roosevelt on the trust question and I am inclined to agree with them," said Andrew Carnegie before the steel trust investigation committee today. Representative Gardner of Massachusetts had contrasted these views with those expressed by President Taft in his recent message on the trust question.
"In the solution of the industrial problems," said Representative Gardner, "there are two leading facts brought before us. President Taft in his recent message expressed the view that dissolution of large units should go on."
"The other line of thought as expressed by former president Roosevelt is that under the existing Sherman law we should look to the recognition of large units controlled by the government. In which class are you, Mr. Carnegie?"
"I have agreed with Mr. Roosevelt's views. I think for the present you should allow large organizations to continue, to see how we get along and that you should pass laws regulating these organizations."
"Then you should be patient and see what further legislation may be necessary. I do not think the Sherman law is just drastic enough. Give us a clear universal law and I believe we will steer clearly."
"Do you believe the dissolution of the United States Steel Corporation would lessen the price of steel?"
"I do not believe it would. It depends, of course, upon what the court might do."
"Suppose congress does not take the step that you advance?"
"My opinion is that congress will see the necessity for more government control."

LEDGERS PRODUCED IN PACKERS' TRIAL
Details of Bookkeeping Employed in Meat Business Were Given Today in Trust Case.
Chicago, Jan. 12.—Further details of the bookkeeping methods employed in the fresh meat business were given today in the trial of the Chicago packers charged with maintaining a combination in restraint of trade.
The general ledgers of Morris & Co., from 1907 to 1910 were taken before United States District Judge Carpenter and the allowances credited for by-products were read to the jury by the district attorney in an effort to prove the government contention that the allowances are inadequate.
The government attempted to show by the intricate system of accounting employed that the methods of the different packers were practically uniform.
Several witnesses who have been examined declared that many of the books and records which the government desired to use in the present case and which were omitted before the federal grand jury in charging against the packers in 1909 had disappeared.

The Italian warships cruising in the Red Sea since the beginning of the war included the cruiser Piemonte, Calabria and Puglia and a flotilla of destroyers.
Adriatic is the base from which they operated several weeks ago when they bombarded the towns of Shell, Mocha and Akabah.

RESULT OF GERMAN ELECTION DOUBTFUL
WIDESPREAD DISSATISFACTION APPARENT BUT ELECTION IS PROBLEMATIC.
Berlin, Jan. 12.—A general election was held throughout the German Empire today to choose members of the Reichstag. Rarely has an election excited more interest since the founding of modern Germany and rarely has greater importance attached to the result.
The widespread dissatisfaction over the policy of the government in the Moroccan negotiations, a dissatisfaction which left it apparently without a single friend in the Reichstag and the great increase in the cost of the necessities of life, which bears most heavily upon the wageworkers and all persons of small incomes, have created a situation in which the most acute political prophets find themselves at a loss to predict the probable result of the polls.
Gains For Socialists.
It seems to be conceded that the parties of the Left—the liberal groups and the Socialists—will make gains, but their probable extent is uncertain. The Reichstag just dissolved was elected in January, 1907 and sat for the five years term provided in the constitution. It was constituted, following the elections of 1907, as follows: Right (Conservatives, Free Conservatives, Agrarian associations) ..... 113 Center (Catholics, Poles) ..... 129 Left (National Liberals, Radicals) ..... 106 Social Democrats (Socialists) ..... 43 Scattering (particularistic parties) ..... 6
The growth of the cities at the expense of the rural districts has worked especially against the Socialists, whose chief strength in Germany, as elsewhere, is mainly in the great centers of population. Five of Berlin's six delegates to the late Reichstag were Socialists, as were all three of Hamburg's delegates.
The Conservatives.
The original two parties of fifty and more years ago—the royalists and democrats—have developed since the election of the modern empire into no less than forty parties. Of these thirty had representatives in the late Reichstag and seven delegates more—over without any nominal party allegiance. Disregarding, however, all but the essential points of variance between these various parties, five great groups can be named which comprehend fairly the concrete views of all but the particularistic voters of the empire. These groups are the Conservatives, Center, National Liberals, Radicals (or Progressives) and Socialists.
The Conservatives are, above all, a government party and the representatives of the great landed proprietors of North Germany, especially Prussia, the eastern provinces of which form their stronghold. They are strongly monarchistic, opposed to every step that may lead to a more direct participation of the common people in government affairs and opposed to the general franchise, favoring instead "a franchise based upon the organic groups of the people."
Catholic Party.
The Center or Catholic party is the strongest party numerically in the Reichstag and has been the strongest almost without exception since 1871. From this it comes that the Center has always held the decisive vote on all questions and the government has always had to reckon with its moving principle of the protection of the interests of the Roman Catholic Church and its equality before the law with the Evangelical or state church. It supports a high tariff and since 1898 has been a government party, allied with the Conservatives on all important questions and building thus what is called the "black-blue block."
The National Liberals, since the formation of the black-blue block, may be said to constitute a middle party, midway between the extreme monarchists and the extreme democrats. Once the all-powerful party of Germany, which, supporting Bismarck, played an important role in the formation of the modern empire, the National Liberals have fallen from a high estate.
"Progressive Party."
The Radicals, who term themselves the "Progressive People's Party," are made up of three previously existing radical factions—the Radical People's party, the Radical League and the German People's party, all of which had delegates in the late Reichstag. In March, 1870, these three principal parties of the left were united. The Radicals are an outgrowth of the old Progressive party, which was organized in 1848 by advocates of free trade. The present coalition advocates a systematic abolition of the protective tariff and equal rights for all citizens and freedom for the individual. The program thus demands a "responsible, ecological imperial ministry." Peaceful abolition of all international disputes is a cardinal point in the party program.
Socialists Program.
The Socialists' program is that of the Socialists the world over and is well known. Their ultimate political aims, including the women, shall have equal rights. They are unconditionally opposed to armaments and war, to tariffs and indirect taxes; favor communal ownership of property and of all means of production, no interference in religious affairs, separation of church and state, direct legislation by voters through the initiative and referendum, universal direct franchise abolition of night work for women and

EQUITABLE LIFE FIRE
New York City.—The fire which destroyed completely the Equitable Building, one of the most remarkable from the point of possible loss of securities in one building, the world has over known. Had it not been for the high quality of the vaults in the building billions of dollars would have been lost in securities and papers so important in the transaction of business would have been lost that it would have created the utmost havoc in Wall street. Fortunately these are now safely stored elsewhere and no loss resulted through this channel.

ENTRIES TO SHOW DELAYED BY COLD; TIME IS EXTENDED

Directors of Poultry Association Will Allow Birds to Be Entered Until Monday Morning.

Owing to the fact that the severe cold has caused a hesitancy on the part of some of the fanciers in this section from entering their birds for the local show, the directors of the local poultry association have decided to extend the entry date until Monday morning. According to the premium lists today was the last day for making entries but the extension of time was thought wise under the present conditions although the earlier entries can be made the better it is for the show managers as well as the exhibitors.

Secretary F. H. Green will be at the risk all day Sunday to receive entries and add to the arrangement of the building for the accommodation of the birds. Should the weather be warmer tomorrow and Sunday it is thought that the number of entries will be substantially increased.

From the number of birds entered up to today it was evident that this would be the largest poultry show ever held in Janesville. Some exhibitors have entered as high as fifty or sixty fowls and the majority of birds shown at the Madison show which closes tomorrow will be brought here for the show next week. Word has been received that a number of the Madison exhibitors will ship their birds here Saturday night or Sunday morning and Mr. Green has made arrangements to take care of them until the risk is in readiness.

The work of decorating the risk building which is in charge of a special committee with Edw. Amerpohl as chairman, will be done Sunday and the final placing of the coops will be finished Monday morning. Twenty men or more will be needed to make these necessary preparations and the members of the association who can give their time and services Sunday and Monday will do so.

The prospects for one of the best shows in this part of the country are extremely bright, and no one will be disappointed.

Ten minutes of preliminary drill were given following the program.

Voice of the People.

My opinion of the commission plan of government for cities having been solicited I will say that I would like very much to see the plan tried out in Janesville. It has about it qualities of business organization that appear very strongly to me. When the business of an individual or a corporation is not running smoothly or is not showing an increase over former years the conclusion is formed that something is wrong and a careful investigation is made for the reasons; business men take the proper steps to improve their conditions and why should not the same rule apply to the city. I am very much in favor of the adoption of this plan and look for good results under it.

Not to Speak Of.

COLD WEATHER STILL GRIPS ENTIRE CITY

Zero Weather Has Become Quite The Fashion These Winter Days.

Sub zero weather still holds Janesville in its grip and complaints of the intense cold are heard on every side. At midnight, last night, the thermometer registered twenty-two degrees below and this morning shortly after seven it had risen two degrees and was twenty below. Complaints are heard of frozen water pipes, trouble with gas even the best of furnaces have apparently gone wrong. Coal dealers report extra orders of supplies of fuel and plumbers are overworked thawing out frozen pipes. One danger that has come to many households is the presence of sewer gas due to the freezing of the escape air vent in the roof and it might be well for property owners to look into this important part of their sanitary plumbing arrangements.

Attention is again called to the fact that the big thermometer in front of the Gazette office is not correct and persons who read it should deduct some eight degrees to get the proper temperature.

WEATHER MAPS WERE DELAYED BY TRAINS

Extreme Cold Causes Late Mail Hence Non-Appearance of This Feature in The Gazette.

Many inquiries have come to the Gazette over the absence of the weather maps from the daily columns. The feature hasn't been dropped but owing to the lateness of the mails in reaching the city it has not been possible to have it appear in the Gazette. The maps are made by the weather bureau of the government agricultural department at Madison in noon each day from observations reported from all parts of the country. It reaches Janesville on the three o'clock train which has been late for the past ten days, hence the non-appearance of the maps. The feature, however, will appear as soon as the weather and Uncle Sam's mail service reach a suitable agreement. At the present time the weather is on the strike.

Climbing for Cats.

A boy in northern Michigan was out hunting and saw two cats up a tree. The family needed a pussy about, and so he laid down his gun and took a climb. What he didn't know until too late was that the cat holds of the cats they laid hold of him, and the doctor who attended his hurts counted up 41 bites and scratches. In hunting for cats be careful that you don't get the wrong breed.

LINK AND PIN RAILROADS HINDERED BY CONTINUED COLD

Severe Cold Puts Hard Strain on Nearly All Departments.—Firemen Taking Physical Culture.

If the present low temperature keeps up for more than a week longer some of the railroad men, will be laying off with serious attacks of nervous prostration or something of the same nature. Engines won't stay hot, and when by a desperate effort they are gotten up to the required steam pressure the turning on of the injector tends to see stars and talk of it in their dreams about automatic stoppers, and extra coal. Only the most careful attention prevents engines from freezing and stalling the train out in the wilderness somewhere leaving the crew to talk about the progress of the Panama Canal. They even sometimes tell how oppressive the heat was last summer.

Men working on the repair tracks which are pleasantly situated on the open prairie north of the roundhouse have to resort to all sorts of methods to keep warm these days and sometimes they have to chisel off the ice before they can tell where the break is. Yesterday and today a strong wind from the north swept across the tracks and did what it could to help the repairmen and some one remarked that it was better than a consumption sanitarium.

So far this week the coal men have not been putting in any extra time on the shutes being satisfied with a ten hour day. These shutes generally freeze up before anything else, but this year seems to be extraordinary in several ways. They have the satisfaction of knowing that most thermometers can't go below fifty so they won't know if it goes below that and won't notice the cold so much. All of the time freights are late today being unable to keep up enough steam to carry heavy loads. 501 was late getting out of the shops this morning owing to the fact that the other trains were so far behind time. No more freight is being handled than is absolutely necessary everything which can be kept in being held in the house until traffic becomes easier. Owing to the delay in making long runs several firemen have to work sixteen hours and often handle as much as twenty to twenty-five tons of coal during that time.

Fireman Lee and Burrows, dead-headed back here from Chicago yesterday.

Thomas Haddow is laying off for a short time due to a severe attack of rheumatism, but expects to return to work within a few days.

Excavator J. Morgan, at last made his expected visit and was given a royal entertainment by his Janesville friends. His visit was necessarily short as he had to return to his duties in Milwaukee, where he enjoys an excellent position as storekeeper.

Engineer Edw. Smith with 54 and Engineer Townsend with 57 went through here this morning with a special containing a shipment of passenger equipment being taken back to Chicago from 131-roy.

Fireman Grant is on the board today after several months on 518 and 513. When everyone who had occasion to go into the roundhouse this morning between eight and nine was greeted with a pleasant surprise. The machine was being holding another smoker and all visitors were invited to join them. There may have been thirty there and there may have been but four or five—no one could see who was there. Some said that there was an engine there wrong side to and that it was responsible for the smudge but as it was invisible if it was there it can't be blamed for the whole thing.

When big 1473 started to go into the roundhouse this morning she broke a railroad square off and let the rear tender truck run off onto the ground. After a little cold work she was replaced on the rails without any damage done although if she had been going very fast she would have dropped into the turntable pit.

Machine helper J. Fish is on the sick list today.

Owing to the fact that machinist E. Garbutt was compelled to work outside today he surprised his friends by purchasing a pair of California overshoes.

Laughlin Speaks Tonight: Prof. James Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago will speak under the auspices of the Industrial and Commercial club at the city hall at eight o'clock this evening. Stricken With Fit: A young man from out of the city was stricken with an epileptic fit just outside the Central cigar store on the bridge this morning and fell to the sidewalk, receiving a hard blow on the head. He was carried into the store and Dr. Welch who was passing, was called to attend him. He rallied within a short time and was able to leave the place without assistance.

"Dad."
"Dad" and "maddy" were well known in this country in the sixteenth century; "papa" did not come in, borrowed from abroad, until the seventeenth century was well advanced. Morio, at the end of the former century, defined the Italian "pappa" as "the first word that children are taught to call their father, as ours say 'daddy,' 'daddy' or 'daddy.'" "Dad" seems to be the commoner to mankind of the two. Nausens in the "Odyssey" calls her father "pappa phile," dear papa; but Greek has "tata" also, and Welsh has "tat" and Irish "daddy."

BELOIT TEAM VISITS JANESVILLE TONIGHT

Line City Intermediates to Play Locals.—Whitewater Game Postponed One Week.

Physical Director Hartwell received word from the Whitewater manager that they would have to call off the game with the local team, as they were unable to heat their gymnasium properly and requesting a game for the following Saturday. This arrangement was satisfactory to the locals as they will have a little time to practice before the game and can get into better shape.

Beloit plays with the Intermediates tonight at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, the first of two games to decide which team has the superior ability. If the Janesville boys are defeated they will have a chance to redeem themselves when they make the trip to Beloit later although they intend to start by winning in the first place. Between halves Physical Director Hartwell has planned a new stunt which will occupy the time that the boys are resting. Several members will play what is called Waterloo and as it is new here it is decidedly interesting and amusing to watch. Ladies are given a cordial invitation to attend all games at the Y. and will be amply repaid for their trouble tonight.

Nothing More Doing.

An Atchison girl began going with an Atchison man several years ago. He called about every evening in the week. Took her to the theater, moving picture shows and dances. They went buggy riding together and walking Sunday afternoons. About a year ago they were married. Since then theater going has stopped; a dance is unheard of and a moving picture show an event of the couple. Sunday afternoon walking has ended and buggy riding belongs to their dead past. Today the girl met one of her neighbors who evidently had not heard of her marriage. She said to the girl: "You have quit going with that fellow; you went with so long, haven't you?"—Atchison Globe.

WIFE OF M'MANIGAL CONFIRMS TESTIMONY

Confession of Dynamiter Compares in Detail With Statements Made By His Wife to Court.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 12.—Orville McManigal's confession, particularly with reference to others who helped in the dynamite conspiracy, was confirmed in detail by the dynamiter's wife, who was examined today by government officials in charge of the federal grand jury investigation. After McManigal regularly took up dynamiting he secretly met in Chicago men who, it is asserted, talked about places to be blown up. Mrs. McManigal was questioned about her husband's carrying explosives through Chicago to points in Wisconsin, Missouri and Iowa, and about people who accompanied him when he blew up a place in South Chicago, February 24.

FORBIDS JOHNSON TO FIGHT IN NEW YORK

Frank O'Neil of Athletic Commission States That No Johnson Bout Will Take Place in New York.

New York, Jan. 12.—If Frank O'Neil of the recently created State athletic commission has anything to say about it Jack Johnson will not don a glove for a contest within the limits of New York State. There has been some talk of staging a short bout here for Johnson although as a preliminary to the proposed match with Jim Flynn in Nevada. "But," said commissioner O'Neil today "this athletic committee was created to control boxing and we're going to control it. I have come to the conclusion it is against the public policy and expediency to have Johnson box here. This is final." O'Neil added that in event that any promoters would insist on putting on a Johnson bout here he would resign and "that he concluded would stop all contests."

NATIONAL GOLF MEETING

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12.—The controlling powers in American golf affairs are gathering in the Quaker City in anticipation of the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association, which is to be held tomorrow at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. Public interest in the meeting will be confined almost wholly to the selection of the courses for the championship tournaments for 1912. The Chicago Golf Club, the Cincinnati Golf Club, the Country Club of Baltimore and the Essex Country Club of Manchester, Mass., have applied for the amateur championship event. The Essex club is an applicant for the open championship also, while the women's title play is sought by both the Buffalo and Essex clubs. The Nassau Country Club of Glen Cove, N. Y., is willing to entertain any of the events should the association desire to use its course.

PHILADELPHIA AUTO SHOW WILL OPEN TOMORROW.

Will Last Two Weeks This Year. First Week Exclusively to Gasoline Cars.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12.—Motoring celebrities from all parts of the country have arrived in this city as the advance guard of the army of makers, factory experts, and demonstrators to co-operate in the eleventh annual exhibition of the Philadelphia Automobile Trade Association, which is to open to the public tomorrow in the First and Third Regiment armories. The early arrivals included several manufacturers of motor cycles, trolleys, and accessories, in addition to the heads of the big plants engaged in the exclusive production of pleasure and commercial vehicles. The show this year is to be a two weeks' session. The first week is to be devoted exclusively to gasoline cars. The electric vehicles will have their innings the second week.

Fights Scheduled for Tonight. Leach Cross, vs. Bert Keyes, 10 rounds, at New York.

HAVE COMPLETED DECORATIONS FOR MILWAUKEE AUTO SHOW.

Milwaukee auto show is completed. The Decorative Scheme for the Milwaukee Auto Show is Completed.

The conception of the show committee and Manager Hart Ruddle promises to excel any previous effort at decoration in the Auditorium, when the doors open January 13, for one week.

The main arena and stage will be a scenic setting within a garden wall. The spaces in which the gasoline and electric cars will be exhibited, will be divided off by imitation stone pillars with trailing vines and Alabama smilax and grape vines. Capping each of the columns will be an ornamental urn filled with spreading boughs of southern needle pines, purple beech, cedars and sassafras.

In each of the baskets there will be from six to ten incandescent lamps, covered with bulbs in imitation of popples and other flowers. In all there will be one hundred of these monster baskets, which will serve as a sort of a canopy of the exhibition space. Interspersed in the spaces between the baskets there will be great sun-bursts of electric lights. These will be arranged in circular form, there being sixty lamps in each sun-burst. The globes will be frosted white, this subduing the volume of illumination, and blending with the color effect produced by the floral baskets and the grayish-green of the artificial stone work.

The imitation stone wall extending from the west side of the stage around the entire arena to the east side of the stage, a distance of six hundred feet, in front of the boxes and extending somewhat higher than the box rail, will convey the idea of the automobile exhibits being on the greens ward of the garden. Walks ten feet wide running the entire length of the arena north and south, and in the center east and west. These will lead to the corridors and to the annex.

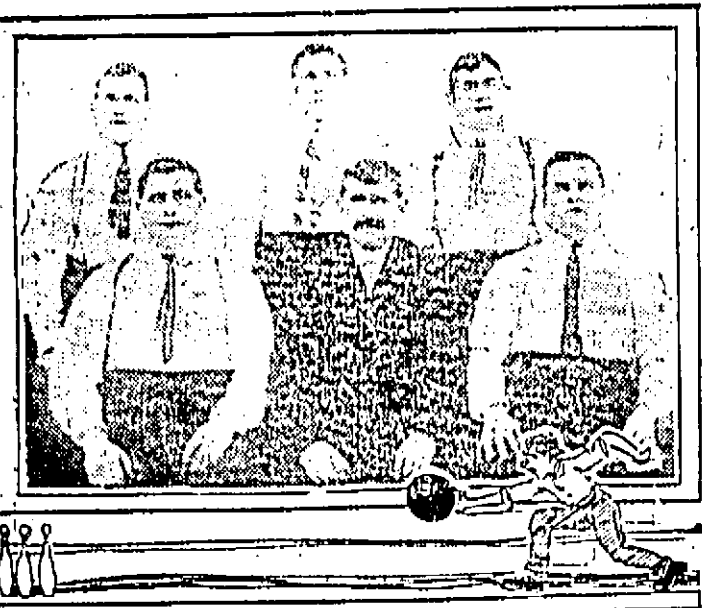

Sheer Waste.

Embryo Politician.
"What makes you think the baby is going to be a great politician?" asked the young mother, anxiously. "I'll tell you," answered the young father, confidently; "He can say more things that sound well and mean nothing at all than any kid I ever saw."

FAMILY OF BOWLERS.

Milwaukee, Wis.—For the first time in the history of bowling in America, a team composed entirely of brothers, will compete in a national fingerball tournament. This rather unique distinction belongs to the Rogahn brothers of this city, who have entered the five men event in the A. H. C. tourney, which will be held in Chicago, starting March 2.

The five brothers, Ernest, Charles, William, Albert and Ted are all stars at the pin game. August, captain of the team, is also a star bowler, and while he will not roll in the team event, he will double up with one of his brothers in the doubles. Milwaukee tonight followers confidently expect the team to finish well up in the prize money, and the brothers are so confident of their skill that they are willing to bowl any brothers team in America for a side bet of any proportions.

AROUND WORLD IN AUTO.

New York City.—Among the "shiny" squad which arrived on the Lacandonia January 5th, were three happy enthusiastic automobilists who are just completing the last stage of their trip around the world in a small automobile. The men were Tom Jones, J. H. Drake and T. M. Hanlon. These men started out nearly a year ago from Detroit and have circled the globe. The first stage was to San Francisco, then across to Honolulu, then to the Philippines, Japan, China, India, touching Africa through the Suez Canal, touring Europe and then the trip across the Atlantic to New York. They are now on their way from New York to Detroit, where they expect to arrive the latter part of next week. This is the first time in the world's history that a light road car has made the circuit of the globe.

IMPORTANT MATTERS REGARDING HIGHWAYS

HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER AND ROAD COMMITTEE MAKE REPORTS TO BOARD TODAY.

STATE LAW DISCUSSED

Peculiar Situation of Rock County in Reference to New State Aid Law is Explained.

Important matters regarding the county highways including the report of Highway Commissioner S. S. Jones and the report of Committee No. 6 on highways, were brought before the county board in their session today.

Jones Gives Report.
Mr. Jones in his report stated that during the past year something over thirty-one miles of highway had been constructed in the county. In addition there was a considerable amount of repair work of importance which had been done.

He described the work which had been accomplished in the various townships and the cost which had been incurred.

Report of Committee.
Supervisor Moore in presenting the report of Committee No. 6 on permanent and prospective highways, embodied in the report a criticism of the new state highway aid law because it was the opinion of the committee that the county had been more successful in constructing roads than where the state had interfered.

Recommendations Made.
The committee recommended the immediate repair of all roads in the county which were to be part of the county system and also advised the acceptance of all roads constructed previous to 1911 with the exception of a list of ten roads in as many townships which required a little more work.

Roads Are Accepted.
Supervisor Moore then offered a resolution which was passed providing for the acceptance of roads constructed previous to 1911 in the county with the exception of certain roads described in the township of Porter, Janesville, Johnston, Plymouth, Rock, Adams, Turtle, Center, Deloit, and Harmony.

Appropriation Made.
Another resolution was also introduced and passed providing for the appropriation of $1,000 to repair and finish the ten roads which were excluded from acceptance in the previous resolution. It was explained that with the expenditure of this small amount of money it would be possible to finish these roads and make them acceptable for the county system, whereas if they did not spend this money the roads would eventually be destroyed, meaning the loss of thousands of dollars.

Money to Townships.
The money will be divided among the ten townships as follows: Johnston, $200; Janesville, $150; Johnston, $200; Harmony, $100; Deloit, $100; Adams, $200; Bradford, $100; Magnolia, $200; and Porter, $50.

It was also made a part of the resolution that the 1911 roads should be accepted by the county and incorporated as a part of the county system as soon as completed and accepted by the county highway commissioner, or highway committee, or by whatever means the board should decide. This all roads as soon as completed would become a part of the county highway system.

State Highway Law.
Supervisor Gottle brought up the matter of the state highway law and pointed out the peculiar situation of Rock county. Under the act, but a few years ago, the county had the right to come into the state aid provision. At present we have under the county system accepted and in good condition 104 miles of road and are building road at the rate of thirty miles a year. If there are only 1,000 miles of road in the county this means that if the 104 incorporated into the county system are made state roads within two years we will not be entitled to state aid.

Change Will Be Slow.
It was the opinion of the board members that the change would be slow from the county to the state system, for the county will be anxious to secure their portion of the state money which is for construction purposes and not for repairs. It was voted the county and townships should pay an equal amount toward the improvement of state highways.

Map of Highways.
A map of the county highways obtainable to be improved or which have been improved, was submitted to the board for acceptance. The roads with the neighboring counties have been connected up with the exception of Jefferson county with whom arrangements are pending. The map embodies all the roads which have been submitted by the township chairmen to come under the county system and cannot be changed without the consent of the state highway commission.

CANNOT GET SPUDS; PRICE INCREASING

Cold Prevents Shipments From Chicago and Price Increases As Supply Decreases.

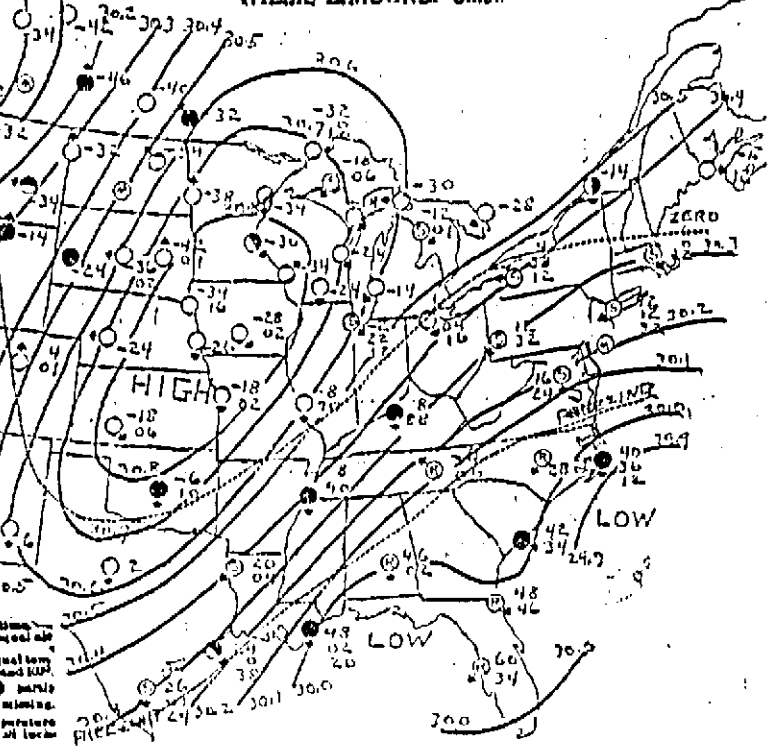

Potatoes are starting in for an altitude record these days and if the cold weather don't let up pretty soon they will be up to a dollar and a half a bushel. They have been raised to $1.00 a bushel today and will continue to rise as the time extends during which shipping is impossible. No vegetables of any kind can be gotten from the Chicago dealers and the few little offerings which can be picked up from local producers are all that put in an appearance these days. The housewife will have to invent something to take their place unless a warm wave opens up traffic again to its former condition. No other change is made today and the markets are as follows:

Vegetables.
Carrots—2¢ lb.
Parsnips—2¢ lb.
Potatoes—1¢ lb.
Spanish Onions—8¢ lb.
Sweet Potatoes—8¢ lb.
Cauliflower—20¢.
Green Peppers—5¢ each.
Squash—15¢@20¢.
Yellow onions—4¢ lb.
Cabbage—6¢@10¢ a head.
Lettuce—5¢ bunch.
Head Lettuce—10¢.
Dwarf Celery—15¢@20¢ bunch.
Golden Heart Celery—8¢ stalk.
Vegetable Onions—5¢ lb.
Spinach—8¢@15¢ lb.

HONORED BY CZAR.
Washington, D. C.—Madame George Bakmeteff, formerly Miss Mary Beale, is very prominent in Washington society this winter, and her pink rubies are the wonder of the national capital. They are among the rarest of their kind, as big as cherries. The smaller ones are fashioned into a beautiful tiara, with five points, the larger rubies being used as the bases, while each point is decorated with an emerald shaped ruby. With this tiara Madame Bakmeteff wears a dog collar. Her hair and necklace of rubies and diamonds, and diamond earrings composed of two solitary stones nearly half an inch long.
Her husband, the Russian Ambassador, is giving exclusive entertainments and inviting all prominent legislators, in view of the present action to abrogate Russian treaty of 1892. In these entertainments Madame Bakmeteff is of course the central figure. She has just been decorated a member of one of Russia's most sacred orders.

U. S. Department of Agriculture.
WEATHER BUREAU
WILLIS LMOORE, Chief.

Jan. 12, 1912.—The barometric depression that was in the Southwest yesterday morning has moved eastward along the Gulf coast to the east Gulf of Mexico and the south Atlantic coast. It has been followed in Texas and Louisiana by a cold wave, which will probably pass over the east Gulf states tonight and tomorrow.
The area of high atmospheric pressure that was in the Northwest stretched southwestward down the Plains to all the area left by the movement of the area of low pressure above described. Clear skies prevail throughout its center, and the consequent radiation has carried the temperature lower in Wisconsin, Iowa and the Missouri valley than it has reached heretofore this winter. The lowest temperature recorded in the United States this morning was 42 below zero at Huron, S. D.

Immaterial.
The Boarding House, Wt was executing a note to his landlady for three months arrears.
"Shall I write this 'sixty days after date,' or 'sixty days after death?'" he inquired, merrily jocoso.
"Since it is your note," retorted the sour old landlady, "I don't know that it would make much difference."

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

LINCOLN'S ANSWER TO SEWARD.

By A. W. MACY.
William H. Seward and his friends were sorely disappointed at his failure to secure the nomination for the presidency in 1860. Lincoln displayed both sagacity and magnanimity when he gave his defeated rival the most important place in his cabinet. At the time Lincoln was largely an unknown quantity, while Seward was a man of much experience in public affairs. Seward's friends confidently expected him to be the strong man of the cabinet, and even to overshadow the executive. Shortly after entering upon his duties he handed Lincoln a note containing "Some Thoughts for the President's Consideration." Among other things he suggested the necessity that some one man should take the lead and grapple boldly with the situation, closing with these words: "Either the president must do it himself, or devolve it upon some member of the cabinet. . . . It is not my special province, but I neither seek to evade or assume responsibility." Lincoln answered the note the same day. On the question of leadership he simply said, "If this must be done, I must do it." The matter was dropped then and there, and with due discretion Lincoln kept the correspondence secret.

RESULT OF GERMAN ELECTION DOUBTFUL

Children and the fullest self-government down to the smallest municipal divisions of the empire.
The socialists have no friends among the other parties and are hated by the Emperor, who has termed them "the arch enemies of the empire." Their growth has been almost phenomenal. In 1871 they polled 113,048 votes; in 1877, 493,258; in 1890, 1,127,298, and in 1907, 3,258,000. This growth has come in the face of most determined opposition from the government, which suffers no Socialist to hold any important government position or to receive any political honor, decoration or title.

Nature's Workings.
If you are looking for the original blown bottle Cold Proposition, find the man that always yelled "Fill 'em up again!" in the days when he was young and in his prime. He is the one genuine Tight Wad. If you need help, for the love of humanity as well as your self, keep away from him.

These are bargain days. Read Gazette ads. and profit.

Chinese-Chorus-Girls.
In some Chinese theaters the stage manager has an economical custom of employing dummy figures cut out of cardboard and the like, to swell the ranks of the chorus without at the same time swelling the salary list. Obviously, such a device would never do in this country, for a cardboard chorus girl would hardly satisfy the matrimonial requirements of our elated youth. In China it is most unusual for women to appear on the stage, and the feminine roles are taken by boys.

"Buy It In Janesville"

The Extraordinary Event of the Year

A Wonderland of Bargains for January and February

Beginning January 15th and Ending February 15th, 1912

THE BARGAIN COUNTERS want your trade in Dry Goods, Notions, Underwear, Furnishing Goods and Shoes, and we mean to get a large share of it. We want to get it, by deserving it; we mean to make it PAY YOU to buy at the bargain counters. Our first great aid to success will be CASH--CASH buying and CASH selling. Did you ever figure out the difference between cash and credit, when it comes to keeping store? Cash buys cheaper—all the choicest bargains are at his beck and call. CASH does business at a less expense than credit does, because he has no bookkeepers to pay, he has no interest to pay to the bank for borrowed money, and he does not lose the interest on money locked up in goods and in bad and doubtful accounts. When you buy goods for CASH you buy for less money because of these things. You buy for less for another reason—you don't help pay other people's bad debts. And the help will be money back if you want it.

You will find Norton & Mahoney's policy is small profits and quick turn over of stock. We buy right and sell cheap. It is this perpetual pushing of stocks that keeps the factory fires burning and fills the working man's dinner pail. It also helps you to goods at low figures. Remember "Store Extravagance" means high prices and large profits. Excessive decorations made to enhance appearance of merchandise must be paid for by the public.

Our object lesson is TRUE ECONOMY. True economy is buying for 5 or 10 cents that which will answer the same purpose as the same article at double or more than double the price. It is easy to practice true economy at Norton & Mahoney's Bargain Counters. Look through the list of necessary goods that you use every day—goods you must have to live right and work well. Remember that the prices here are good for the months of January and February only.

QUIT CALOMEL

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive oil colored tablet.

The results of fifteen years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

Use one or two per box.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio. Dr. F. M. Edwards, President.

Catch White Sparrow.

A white sparrow has been caught near Elgin, England. It was observed for the first time about a week ago, and was then so young that it was being fed by the parent birds. With the exception of a small fringe at the extremities of the wings which is of rather darker color, its feathers are pure white all over.

COMMITTEES NAMED AT EAGLES' MEETING

PLANS FOR STATE CONVENTION DISCUSSED BY LOCAL AERIE LAST EVENING.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

State President Toll Estimates the Crowd at Ten to Fifteen Thousand—and Local Officers Installed.

At the meeting of Janesville Aerie No. 724 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles last evening, plans for the coming state convention that is to be held in Janesville June 18, 19 and 20 were fully discussed. Committees named to handle the affair, officers of the local lodge installed for the coming year and a delightful social session enjoyed by the members present.

Interest was added to the gathering by the presence of state president T. M. Toll of Milwaukee, who has recently completed a tour of visits to the various aeries of the state. Mr. Toll made an address during the meeting and expressed as his opinion that fully ten to fifteen thousand members of the order and their friends would be present during the three days.

A. L. Hietting, treasurer of the Milwaukee Aerie, was also present and stated that including the drill team of the Milwaukee Aerie he expected fully a thousand visitors from the Cream City would be present led by a band and the drill team. Already a marching and visiting club is being organized to make the Milwaukee showing a good one.

John C. Nichols, president of the local Aerie, also secretary of the state Aerie and deputy district superintendent, has just completed a tour of his district and reported that Racine, Kenosha, Madison and a dozen other Aeries promised to send big delegations and he thought that the city would be taxed to care for the visitors and delegates who would be present.

The local Aerie has reorganized its famous drill team and under the leadership of Captain Thos. J. Hake regular drills have been instituted. There will also be a marching club organized for the local Aerie so that the parade, at the day of the convention, promises to be a most interesting one.

Lomart; Secretary, Hugh Joyce, Jr.; Chaplain, Frank Joyce; Inner Guard, Hugh Flaherty; Outer Guard, William Conroy; Treasurer, Robert Hockett; Trustees, Thomas Abbott, Orville Moore and James Sheridan and Worthy Past President Newton.

It is supposed by some that the little wolf of India was the original ancestor of the dog. It is the only wild animal possessing the salient eyebrow, or crest of the dog. ## PASTOR RUSSELL AT THE CHINESE PARIS

No Burning Hell For Heathen Mentioned In the Bible.

Rightly Understood the Bible's Message is One of Great Joy For All People—Tells That He Himself Was Once on Life's Sea Without Chart or Compass.

(PASTOR RUSSELL)

Shanghai, China, Jan. 7th.—The Committee of Foreign Missions Investigation seemed pleased with its reception here. Special honors were accorded General Hall and Pastor Russell, the former because of his official position as second in command of the United States Army, the latter as the Chairman of the Committee. We report Pastor Russell's discourse:

Pastor Russell greatly enjoyed his visit to the Chinese Paris. It was an experience he had longed for from childhood. Early in life he had inquired respecting the fate of the heathen and had received the answer that "without faith it is impossible to please God," and that "there is none other Name given under heaven whereby we must be saved" than the name of Jesus, and through faith in His blood. He then inquired the fate of the unsaved, and got the answer of all "orthodox creeds," that such would be consigned for all eternity to a place where they would suffer indescribable tortures.

Supposing that the Bible was the foundation of these creeds he abandoned the Bible, and for nearly two years was on the sea of life without chart or compass, seeking after a true God not less noble and loving and just than the very best of his human creatures.

Feeling sure that a wise, just, loving God, having made man with mental capacity to appreciate Himself, would make a revelation of His character and His purposes, he sought for a book containing such a revelation of the Divine will as his heart and head could accept. Having abandoned the Bible, he sought the teachings of other sacred books of the world, only to find them still more disappointing.

Hungry for soul, he returned to the Bible, thinking possibly he had studied it before through the distorted spectacles of human creeds. His fresh investigations brought a blessing! Nowhere had he found so glorious a representation of the true, Divine character as in Jesus and His teachings! Truly, he said, "Never man spoke like this man!" Finally he saw the great difficulty which had blinded himself and others to the Divine love and gracious plan of the Bible.

The Resurrection of the Dead. This discovery was that the penalty for sin is not everlasting torture after death, and that the Bible does not so teach. It declares, "The wages of sin is death;" "The soul that sinneth, it shall die;" (Romans vi, 23; Ezekiel xvi, 20.) He perceived that for six thousand years the world has been suffering the very penalty which God declared to Adam, "Thou shalt surely die;" "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, until thou return to the ground from whence thou wast taken."

He sought the Bible remedy for all this and found that no remedy could be applied only as the Divine sentence should be satisfied for Adam by a substitute—that then only could the curse be removed. In full harmony with all this came the Scriptural presentation that the Only Begotten Son of God had left His spiritual plane of glory and become a Man, that "He by the grace of God should taste death for every man;" "Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures, and rose again for our justification."

Pursuing this Bible study he soon found that the hope of humanity centers in the resurrection of the dead: "As by a man came death, by a Man also comes the resurrection of the dead;" for as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive—every man in his own order, or rank. (1 Corinthians xv, 21, 22.)

Two Very Different Salvations. The Pastor was glad he had thought of the hundreds of millions of patient Chinese who will have a share in the great redemption secured by the death of Jesus, and not only so, but their ancestors, thousands of millions, will also have a share, for "Jesus Christ by the grace of God tasted death for every man;" "He is a propitiation [satisfaction] for our sins [the Church's sins], and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world." Here are the two different salvations secured through the death of Jesus, only one of these has yet been made effective—"ours"—not the world's. Ours is to be the First Resurrection, the world's is to be a subsequent one.

The elect Church, of which Jesus is the Head, and His saintly followers the members, will reign for a thousand years, overthrowing sin and death, breaking the shackles of ignorance and superstition, uplifting humanity out of sin and degradation to full human perfection. "The earth is to be man's Paradise, which will reach perfection by the close of Messiah's reign. All who then reject this light will be destroyed in the Second Death."

FAMOUS AMERICAN INDIANS

ALBERT PAYSON TERNHUNE

COFA-CHI-QUI.

On the bank of the Savannah river—near what is now Silver Bluff, S. C.—sat a bearded Spaniard in full armor. He was enthroned upon a gaudy chair of state, and about him were grouped his band of hardy, travel-worn adventurers. The man was Fernando de Soto, discoverer of the Mississippi river. His eyes and those of his followers were just now fixed upon a strange flotilla that was crossing the river toward him. The foremost craft was of gorgeous color and was paddled by eight white-clad girls. On a pile of cushions in the stern, under a gay awning, reclined a young and beautiful woman. She, like all her companions, was of lighter color than most Indians that De Soto had met. She was attired in regal splendor. Around her neck hung a huge rope of pearls. In other canoes close behind her followed a retinue of warriors and courtiers, while the native village she had just quitted was alive with eager faces watching the progress of their princess.

The Pearl Necklace.

As the canoe reached the further bank the princess stepped ashore and walked fearlessly forward to greet De Soto. Bowing low before him, she gracefully made the Spanish adventurer welcome to her realm. She then unveiled the huge pearl necklace from about her throat and threw it in a shiny circle over De Soto's head. In return the Spaniard drew from his finger a ruby ring and presented it to her, saying through an interpreter, that he should cherish the necklace less for its own value than because her hands had bestowed it upon him.

De Soto had come to North America on a journey of exploration, hoping also to find some such marvelous wealth as the new world had hitherto upon Cortez and Pizarro. During his wanderings northward he often heard from Indians along the route of a great princess, Cofachiqui by name, who ruled the Cofachiqui tribe and was incredibly rich in gold, silver and precious stones. Like most Spaniards of that day, De Soto and his men were wildly excited over the tidings of Cofachiqui. They forced a captured Indian to guide him to her chief village. Arriving at the river's bank opposite this village on April 28, 1540, De Soto sent word through an interpreter that his party had come upon a peaceful mission and asked leave to pay his respects to the princess.

She obeyed the summons and made the wanderers welcome to her land. De Soto asked for food to provision his expedition. She promptly granted the request, and even invited him and his men to cross the river and be the guests of her village while the sacks of grain, etc., were collected. On raft De Soto, his fellow adventurers and their horses were ferried across to the village. There the Spaniard's mask of courtesy seems to have been cast aside. The sight of Cofachiqui's pearl necklace had awakened in the adventurers the typical Spanish craving for plunder. De Soto ordered the princess to produce all the precious metals the village could boast.

She meekly consented, and soon a long line of Indians was bringing to De Soto's feet a vast quantity of shining yellow and white metal. The Spaniards crowded frantically around the hoard; then with curses they spurned it from them. For the yellow metal was nothing but copper, and the shining white substance was a sort of tin. The wanderers had not found the El Dorado they had expected. And the friendly Indians and their princess were made to feel the disappointed men's anger.

But the pearl necklace was proof positive that there were precious stones in the neighborhood. De Soto ordered the princess to tell where these gems could be found. By this time Cofachiqui had learned that her peaceful subjects were no match for the grim, well-armed Spaniards. No, without resistance, she led the way to a temple where the royal dead were interred. With each body was buried a quantity of pearls. The adventurers fell to eagerly and looted the sacred places of its treasure.

Unable to get rid of her brutal guests by force, Cofachiqui hit on a clever trick for freeing her village of their presence. She told them that far to the north lay a city so full of wealth that her riches were worthless in comparison. De Soto and his men readily snapped at the bait. Leaving the larger part of their huge pearl treasure behind, to be taken on the return trip, they set off in haste for the mythical treasure city.

De Soto at the last moment seems to have suspected that the princess' story might not be true, for he suddenly ordered her to accompany the expedition as a guide. The fair young ruler protested in vain. But she would not permit her Indians to fly to arms in her behalf. Instead, she finally consented to go, leading the line of Spaniards with such seeming willingness that De Soto after a day or two relaxed his vigilant guard over her. Then, one morning, as they were passing through a dense jungle, Cofachiqui slipped quickly into the undergrowth and vanished.

She vanishes at the same moment from history. For no white man saw her again. As she was familiar with the surrounding country, she doubtless returned safely to her people, too wise to court a second experience with "civilization."

POULTRY

GOOD QUALITIES OF CAPONS

Although Industry is Growing Rapidly Supply Does Not Begin to Equal the Demand.

(By R. R. STOCUM.)

A capon is a male chicken bearing the same relation to a cockerel that a steer does to a bull, a barrow to a boar or a wether to a ram. As with other animals of this kind, the disposition of the capon differs materially from that of the cockerel. He no longer shows any disposition to fight, is much more quiet and is easy to keep within bounds. The true capon never crows. Along with this change in disposition there is a change in appearance. The comb and wattles cease growing, which causes the head to appear small. The hucker and saddle feathers develop beautifully. Indeed, these feathers and the undeveloped comb and wattles serve to identify the capon and in consequence should never be removed when the bird is dressed for the market.

As a result of the more peaceful disposition, the capon continues to grow and his body develops more uniformly and to a somewhat greater size than is the case with the cockerel of the same age. For a time the cockerel and the capon make about equal development, but in a short time the capon outstrips the cockerel in growth.

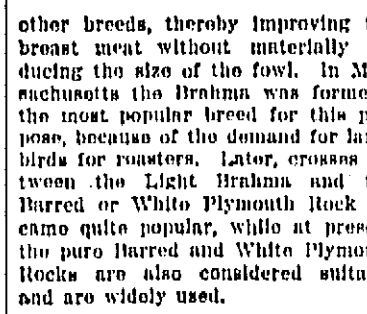

As they do not fight nor worry one another, a large flock of capons may be kept together. Coupled with the better growth is the fact that the capon brings a better price per pound. Cockerels up to 5 months old usually bring from 12 to 18 cents a pound; if held longer than this they are classed as old cocks and do not bring more than 6 to 12 cents a pound.

There are two reasons, then, why it is better to caponize surplus cockerels than to raise them for market as such: (1) There is an increase in weight, and (2) the price per pound is materially increased.

Yet in many localities where especially fine poultry is raised, while capons usually sell for a somewhat better price the difference is not great. In fact, for the Boston market many capons are picked clean and sold as "South Shore roasters." Hence it will be seen that the profit in capons must depend to a great extent upon local conditions.

In selecting the breed best suited for caponizing, several factors must be taken into consideration. Large capons bring the best prices. Consequently the breed should be large. It does not pay to caponize small fowls. Yellow legs and slims, as in other classes of poultry, are most popular.

The Plymouth Rocks, Light Brahmas, Cochins, Indian Game, Langshans and Wyandottes are all recommended by different producers, as are also various crosses of these. The Brahmas and Cochins possess good size, but some of the Brahmas are claimed to be difficult to operate upon; by others this is denied. The Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes are somewhat smaller, but sell readily and possess the advantage of yellow skin and legs. The Langshan is large and is easily operated upon. The Indian Game is probably the most useful as a cross upon some one of the other breeds, thereby improving the breast meat without materially reducing the size of the fowl. In Massachusetts the Brahmas were formerly the most popular breed for this purpose, because of the demand for large birds for roasters. Later, crosses between the Light Brahmas and the Barred or White Plymouth Rock became quite popular, while at present the pure Barred and White Plymouth Rocks are also considered suitable and are widely used.

Prevents Indigestion.

Charcoal is very effective in preventing indigestion, which is a common ailment among poultry of all kinds and of all ages, and as is very well known by all who are in the business, indigestion is one of the forerunners of poultry diseases.

Wine Cheaper than Water.

Wine in Spain is so cheap that it is used instead of water for mixing shoe blacking.

Their Narrow Escape

When she heard his key turn in the lock the bride of only a few weeks made a rush for her husband and clasped his arm tragically as he entered the door.

"Oh!" she cried, "I'm so glad you've come! I've been perfectly miserable thinking about it all by myself!"

"What's happened?" asked her husband, anxiously.

"Oh, Harry!" she went on, "I was putting up the dining room curtains and was just as happy—and all of a sudden it occurred to me that instead of both of us having lived in Chicago all our lives where we simply couldn't help meeting we might just as easily have been born in different places! Suppose—suppose you had always lived here, but that I had been born in Australia or India! Why, I cried for an hour!"

"Nonsense!" said her husband. "What difference would it have made?"

"You haven't any imagination!" she retorted. "We'd never have met, that's the difference it would have made! Why, I tried and tried to remember and I couldn't think of a single soul I knew ever going to Australia or coming from there—it might just as well be on another planet!"

"You mustn't be foolish, darling," said her husband. "You weren't born there, so there's nothing to worry about."

"That isn't the point," said the bride. "Tell me this minute, Harry, whether you think if I had lived there we would have met? I never could have loved any one but you and you couldn't have cared for any one but me, could you? Oh, do you think you would have thought you were in love with another if—"

"Now, Mabel," said her husband after he had taken a deep breath, "I don't see what you are driving at!"

"You are evading the point!" she declared. "You can't honestly say 'No' to my question and you are trying to distract me! It is perfectly awful to be married only six weeks and then find your husband doesn't truly care for you, though I suppose if I'd had any sense I'd have known that in the first place—only women are such sillies they believe everything that's told them! I don't see how I am to blame for having trusted you, for you certainly acted as though you loved me and—"

"Stop, stop!" cried her husband. "What on earth's the trouble, anyhow? Push Australia off the map and let's have peace and sunshine again!"

"Aunt Sarah said I'd be unhappily if I'm married!" wept the bride. "She said your sort of chin always wrecked one's life! But I believed in you! I didn't think you were the sort of man who could fall in love with a different girl every five minutes!"

"Well, I'm not!" stormed her exasperated husband. "I don't know what you're talking about, Mabel!"

"But, if I'd lived in Australia," she persisted, "how could you have helped liking some one else? You wouldn't have been me, you know! It would have been just the same as though I never existed!"

"Well, I wouldn't have existed either!" he declared. "You wouldn't have known or cared a copper cent about one Harry Sylvester Howard, Chicago, U. S. A.!"

"You'd have been quite happy adoring some man over on your side of the globe!"

"Harry!" she cried in tones which dripped tragedy. "Do you mean to say you have such a poor idea of my affection for you as that? Oh, this is the last straw! To have you doubt me! It is worse than discovering how little you really care for me! My heart is broken. As though any one ever could have made the slightest impression on my affection except you—I don't understand how you can be so brutal!"

"I give it up," said her husband. "I seem to pick out all the wrong things to say. I'm trying to comfort you and you call me names, and as for Australia I never expect to see it and I'm sure I don't want to and what I've got to do with you and me is more than I can discover."

"That's because you're a man," said the bride. "Men never do understand things that mean so much to a woman! They are perfectly dense! Tell me—are you sure you care more for me than you ever could for any one else?"

"Didn't I marry you?" almost shouted her husband. Then he took a long breath. "Of course I do! I love you madly, devotedly, intensely, disinterestedly twenty-five hours in the day! Honestly!"

"Well, why didn't you say so at once!" demanded the bride in relieved tones.

DEMOCRATS PLAN CAMPAIGN. Washington, D. C.—The gathering of the Democratic leaders in their committee to determine the location of the National Convention and other details of the party program for the 1912 campaign gave our representative an opportunity to study at first hand some of the most talked of men in America today.

Among those who took particularly important parts in the deliberations of the gathering were Speaker Clark of the House of Representatives, Chairman Underwood of the Committee of the National Convention and other who look twenty years younger without his mustache; William Jennings Bryan, three defeated candidate, and Woodrow Wilson, one of the potential Presidential possibilities.

Of the five men I have sketched, four are admittedly in the race for the Democratic nomination. Mack throughout the proceedings, seemed to be the czar of the situation, and after the executive session in which William Jennings Bryan so desperately fought for the naming of Cal. James M. Giffey of Pennsylvania, I had a close view of him. He has shaved the mustache which for many years has dignified his upper lip.

CHARLES NAGEL

NEW CURRENCY PLAN. Washington, D. C.—Should the Aldrich currency plan be carried and be a part of the banking system of the United States four men will stand out prominently next to the President as the men who are to perfect the organization. These men are the Secretaries of the Treasury, Agriculture, Commerce and Labor, and the Comptroller. At the present time these positions are held by the following in their respective order: Franklin MacVeagh, James Wilson, Charles Nagel, and Robert J. Tracewell.

The plan outlined in the Aldrich bill provides for a division of the United States into five great sections with fifteen branches of the central bank. A general idea of the plan is shown on the above map. In a general idea of this plan, the following are held by the following in their respective order: Franklin MacVeagh, James Wilson, Charles Nagel, and Robert J. Tracewell.

The plan is to divide the country geographically to a large extent rather than in accordance with its population. This, it is believed, will prevent any attempt to dominate the bank by one locality, as for instance, the East. Other safeguards are provided against the absorption of too much power by any one locality or body of men.

Prize Steers Not Good Meat.
The meat of more than one prize steer has proved disappointing in the eating, though fine to look at. In the development of the animal for competition his flesh is sometimes, if not always, seamed with small veins of fat which are dilated by cooking into tough strings. Hence, the range-fed steer, not nursed into prominence, affords the better steak or roast.

FRECKLES

Then McLean sent for a pack of bloodhounds and put them on the trail of Black Jack. They clung to it, on and on, into the depths of the swamp, leading their followers through what had been considered impassable and impenetrable ways, and, finally, around near to the west entrance and out into the swale. Here the dogs bellowed, raved and fell over each other in their excitement. They raced back and forth from swamp to swale, but follow the scent farther they would not, even though cruelly driven.

At last their owner attributed their actions to snakes, and, as they were very valuable dogs, gave over the effort to urge them on. So that all they really established was the fact that Black Jack had eluded their vigilance and crossed the trail some time in the night. He had escaped to the swale, from which he probably crossed the corduroy and, reaching the lower end of the swamp, had found friends.

For Freckles, with Jack's fearful oath ringing in his ears, there was neither rest nor peace. He was almost ill when he saw the Bird Woman and the angel coming down the corduroy. The guards of the east line he left at their customary places, but those of the west he brought over and placed one near Little Chicken's tree and the other at the carriage. He was firm about the angel's remaining in the carriage, which he did not offer to have unchained. He went with the Bird Woman for the picture, which was the easiest matter it had been at any time yet, for the simple reason that the placing of the guards and the unusual movement about the swamp had made Mr. and Mrs. Chicken nervous, and they had not carried Little Chicken the customary amount of food. Freckles, in the anxiety of the last few days, had neglected him.

When the Bird Woman proposed to look for other subjects about the line for Freckles went so far as to tell her that Jack had made fearful threats against the angel. He implored her to take the angel home and keep her under unceasing guard until Jack was located. He let her go, and then blamed himself fiercely that he had done so.

"McLean," said Mrs. Duncan, as the boss paused to greet her in passing the cabin, "do you know that Freckles has been in bed the last five nights and all he's eaten in that many days is cold peck into a pint cup?"

"Why, what does the boy mean?" demanded McLean. "There's no necessity for his being on guard with the watch I've set on the line. I had no idea he was staying down there."

"He's no there," said Mrs. Duncan. "He goes somewhere else. He leaves on his wheel just after we've ached and rides in about cock crow or a little earlier, and he's looking like death and nothing short of it."

"But, where does he go?" asked McLean in astonishment.

"I'm not given to bearing tales out of school," said Sarah Duncan, "but in this case I'd tell you if I could. What the trouble is I don't know. If it is no stopped here in for dreadful sickness, and I thought you could find out and help him. He's in such trouble; that's all I know."

McLean sat brooding as he stroked Nellie's neck.

At last he said: "I suspect I understand. At any rate, I think I can find out. Thank you for telling me."

"You'll not need telling once you clap your eyes on him," prophesied Mrs. Duncan. "His face is all a glistering yellow and he's paled as a starving caged bird."

HERE THE DOGS BELLOWS, RAVED AND FELL OVER EACH OTHER.

Freckles sat so still that presently the brim of his hat was covered with snake feeders, rapping their crisp wings and singing as they rested. Some of them settled on the club and one on his shoulder. He was so quiet and feathery, fur and gauze were so accustomed to him that all about the swale they went on with their daily life and forgot he was there.

The heron finally waded about the mouth of the creek. Freckles lay wondering whether the nerve racking raps they occasionally emitted indicated domestic felicity or a raging quarrel. A whetstone, with fluting carved, went stinking across a bare space near the creek's mouth. A stately brown bittern waded out into the clear flowing water, lifting his feet high at every step and setting them down gingerly, as if he dreaded wading them, and, with slightly parted beak, stood eagerly watching about him for worms. Behind him were some mighty trees of the swamp above, and below the bank gloved a solid wall of goldenrod.

No wonder the ancient had chosen yellow as the color to represent victory, for the force, conquering hue of the sun was in it. They had done well, too, in choosing purple as the color of royalty. It was a dignified, compelling color, and in its warm tone there was a hint of blood.

It was the Linberlost's hour to proclaim her sovereignty and triumph. Everywhere she flaunted her yellow banner and trailed the purple of her mantle, that was paler in the thistle heads, took on strength in the first opening petals, and glowed and burned in the ironwort.

Compellingly beautiful was the Linberlost, but cruel within; far back in there bleached the uncolored bones of her victims, and she had missed crushing him, oh, so narrowly!

Below the turtle log, a dripping silver head, with shining eyes, was cautiously lifted, and Freckles' hand slid around to his revolver. Higher and higher came the head; a long, heavy, fur coated body rose, now half, now three-fourths out of the water. Freckles looked at his sinking hand and doubted, but he gathered his forces, the shot rang out, and the other lay still. He hurried down and tried to lift it. He could scarcely muster strength to carry it to the bridge. The consciousness that he really could not go farther with it made Freckles realize the fact that he was well up to the limit of human endurance. He could bear it little, if any, longer. Every hour the face of the angel was and before him, and behind it the awful distorted image of Black Jack, as he swore to the punishment he would mete out to her.

Freckles stopped when he came to the first guard, and telling him of his luck, asked him to go for the other and carry it up to the cabin, as he was anxious to meet McLean. Freckles passed the second guard without seeing him, and hurried up to the boss. He stood silent under the eyes of McLean. The boss was dumfounded. Mrs. Duncan had led him to expect that he would find Freckles in a bad way, but this was almost deathly. The fact was apparent that the boy scarcely knew what he was doing. His eyes had a glazed, faraway look in them, that wrung the heart of the man that loved him. Without a thought of preliminaries McLean leaped in the saddle and drew Freckles up to him.

"My poor lad," he said. "My poor, dear lad; tell me, and we will try to right it!"

Freckles had twisted his fingers in Nellie's mane. At the kind words his face dropped on McLean's thigh and he shook with a nervous chill. McLean gathered him closer and waited.

"Freckles," said McLean at last. "Will you tell me, or must I set to work in the dark and try to find the trouble?"

"Oh, I want to tell you! I must tell you, sir," shuddered Freckles. "I cannot be hearing it, the day out alone. I was coming to you when I remembered you would be here."

He lifted his face and gazed off across the swale, with his jaws set hard a minute, as if gathering his forces. Then he spoke.

"It's the angel, sir," he said.

Instinctively McLean's grip on him tightened.

"I tried hard the other day," said Freckles, "and I couldn't seem to make you see. It's only that there hasn't been an hour, waking or sleeping, since the day she parted the bushes and looked into me room, that the face of her hasn't been before me in all the titherness, beauty and mischief of it. She talked to me friendly like. She trusted me entirely to take right care of her. She helped me with things about me books. She treated me like I was born a gentleman, and shared with me like I was of her own blood. She walked the streets of the town, with me before her friends with all the pride of a queen. She forgot herself and didn't mind the Bird Woman, and run big risks to help me out that first day, sir. This last time she walked into that gang of murderers, took their leader and twisted him to the will of her. She outdone him and raced the life almost out of her trying to save me."

"Since I can remember, whatever this thing was that happened to me in the beginning has been me curse. I've been bitter, hard and smarting under it hopelessly. She came by and found me voice and put hope of life and success like other men into me in spite of it."

Freckles held up his maimed arm. "Look at it, sir," he said. "A thousand times I've cursed it, hanging there helpless. She took it on the street, before all the people, just as if she didn't see that it was a thing to hide and shrink from. Again and again I've had the feeling with her, if I didn't entirely forget it, that she didn't see it was gone and I must pull her sleeve and be pointing it out to her. Her touch on it was so sacred like, at times since I've caught myself looking at the awful thing near like I was proud of it, sir. If I was born your son she couldn't be treating me more as her equal, and she can't help knowing you ain't truly me father. Nobody can know the ugliness or the ignorance of me better than I do and all me lack of birth, home, relatives and money and what's it all to her?"

Freckles stepped back from McLean, squaring his shoulders and with a royal lift of his head looked straight into the boss' eyes.

"You saw her in the beautiful little room of her and you can't be forgetting how she begged and pleaded with you for me. She touched me body, and 'twas sanctified. She laid her lips on me brow, and 'twas sacrament. Nobody knows the height of her better than me. Nobody's studied my depths closer. There's no bridge for the great distance between us, sir, and, clear of all, I'm for reaching it. But she risked terrible things when she came to me among that gang of thieves. She was herself past bearing to save me from such an easy thing as death! Now, here's me, a man, a big, strong man, and letting her live under that fearful oath, so worse than any death 'twould be for her, and lifting not a finger to save her. I cannot bear it."

It's killing me by inches! If any evil comes to her through Black Jack it comes from her angel like goodness to me. Somewhere he's hiding! Somewhere he is waiting his chance! Somewhere he is reaching out for her! I tell you I cannot, I dare not be hearing it longer!"

"Freckles, be quiet!" said McLean, his eyes humid. "Believe me, I did not understand. I know the angel's father well. I will go to him at once. I have transacted business with him for the last three years. I will make him see I am only just beginning to realize your agony and the real danger there is for the angel. I will see that she is fully protected every hour of the day and night until Jack is located and disposed of. And I promise you further that if I fail to move her father or make him understand the danger I will maintain a guard over her until Jack is caught."

McLean slid from Nellie's back, and went to examine the other.

"What do you want to do, with it, Freckles?" asked McLean. "Do you know that it is very valuable?"

"I was for almost praying so, sir," said Freckles. "As I saw it coming up the bank I thought this: Once somewhere in a book there was a picture of a young girl, and she was just a breath like the beautifulness of the angel. Her hands were in a muff as big as her body, and I thought it was so pretty. I think she was some queen, or the like. Do you suppose I could have this skin tanned and made into such a muff as that—an enormous big one, sir?"

"Of course you can," said McLean. "That's a fine idea and it's easy enough. It would be a mighty fine thing for you to give to the angel as a little reminder of the Linberlost before it is despoiled, and as a souvenir of her trip for you."

Ray-Killed Bacteria.

A method for sterilizing milk without heating or adding preservatives is claimed to have been effectively demonstrated recently in Holland. An apparatus has been constructed, it is explained, whereby the milk flows in a thin stream along an electric light, the ultra-violet beams working on the bacteria. The result is attributed to the quality of the ozone formed under the influence of the light.—The Argonaut.

One Hair's Breadth.

A "hair's breadth" is 17-10,000 of an inch. For the purpose of such fine and delicate measurement tool makers use what is called a micrometer caliper. The hair's breadth is something that has to be taken into consideration in the manufacture of a thousand and one things in the machine maker's art. Close calculation of this sort must be done on the doors of bank vaults, for example, where every part must fit to the nicest degree.—Harper's Weekly.

Finds Cure for Epilepsy After Years of Suffering

"My daughter was afflicted with epileptic fits for three years, the attacks coming every few weeks. We employed several doctors but they did her no good. About a year ago we heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine, and it certainly has proved a blessing to our little girl. She is now apparently cured and is enjoying the best of health. It is over a year since she has had a fit. We cannot speak too highly of Dr. Miles' Nervine."

MRS. FRANK ANDERSON, Comfrey, Minn.

Thousands of children in the United States who are suffering from attacks of epilepsy are a burden and sorrow to their parents, who would give anything to restore health to the sufferers.

Going Over the Books.

"This item in your campaign expense account mystifies me," said the auditor. "I don't understand what you mean by 'raw material.'"

"That's an error on the part of the stenographer," replied Senator Sorghum. "It should read, 'hurray material!'"
